"Heffiner"!

Sally, gee! Ypure just about a junior! Im so-o-so-o glad ypu were with me in Latin again, and just knowing ypull be teasing away at me one more time (next year) makes me happy. Ypure like a little sister to me, somehow, but maybe thats because we see a lot of stuff the same way. Anyhoo, I was never more proud of ypu than at ypur "Sweet 16" party - how neat!! Yon may not follow in ypur footsteps, but I dont think he ever can, or anyone else for that matter. Ypure YOU, and that makes it all so Special!

Maxima cum appreciate, Mary

Dennifer thought she became quite good friends as I think I really wanted a person have ypur great friend-ship this summer and great summer

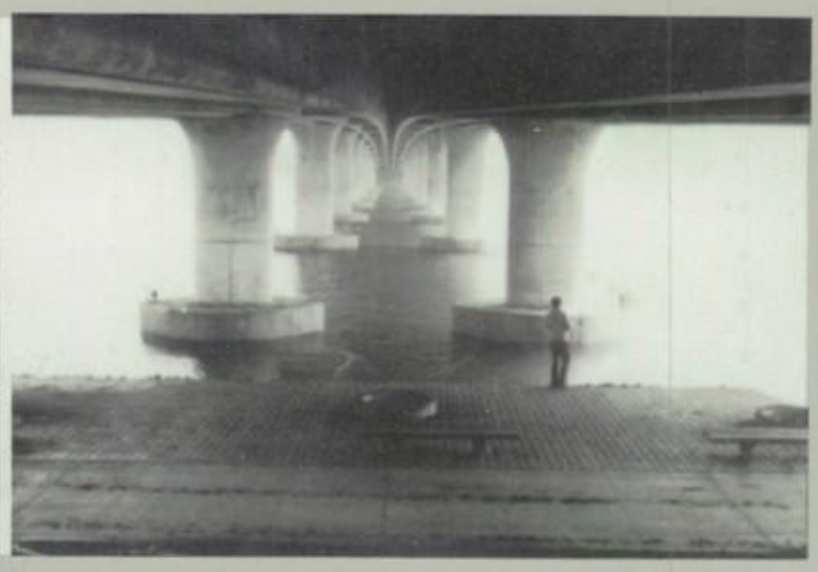
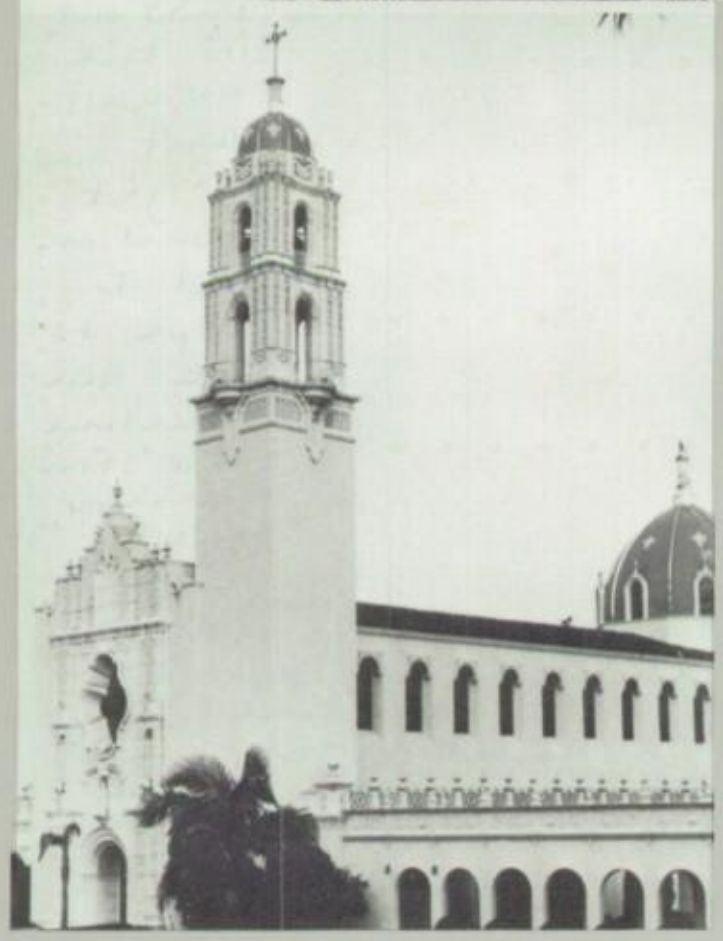
Cavalcade '81

Jennifer,
This year wasn't exactly the best year of my life. But anyway I'm glad I had you as a friend to help me deal with how much I hate it here. Thank god it's almost over. We've had some pretty fun times over the years. Remember last year? after Lisa's party? Your mom gave us a ride home. I swear, I thought I was going to pass out in the car. Well, don't you forget about me. And I hope to see you sometime over the summer, but if we by some chance don't meet, Good Luck. I know you don't need it but...
Love always,
Hany





Graduating from high school obviously marks the end of an important stage in our lives. In itself, it is an amazingly simple action—we participate in a ceremony and receive a diploma. Then, we are given congratulations and we feel in many ways richer. Two hours of ritual concludes twelve years of schooling . . . what could be simpler?

But then, it hits us. The complexity of this new state is boggling. We must learn to accept the new in our lives with the same alacrity that we left the old. We come to understand that we must face all of the uncertainties of our futures with suppressed apprehension. We have exercised a rite of passage. Two hours of ritual begins a half century of lifetime . . . what could be more complex?

Still, we will all get through . . . somehow. It has happened to millions of others a million times before as it happens to us now in 1981. Oddly, when the time comes to graduate, this fact is no comfort. Graduation means change and that is very personal.

It is unsurprising then that the theme of the 1981 CAVALCADE reflects the changes to which all the seniors correspond (and through which all of us develop). Our vicissitudes, our momentary permanence, our ups and downs, our variations, our fundamental, necessary and real changes have made for all this complex simplicity. At the unsettled age of 18, we graduate into a more unsettled America of 205. From the small environment of Parker with the surroundings, shifting dust of the streets of San Diego to the hugeness of the outside world, change is a part of living. The future isn't what it used to be; it has changed.

During the first half of our senior year, we saw a profound change in American political thought; an incumbent president was swept away by a conservative wave ridden by a Republican who called for a "new beginning." We were forced to accept changes in the American image abroad—we faced the deplorable situation with the hostages in Iran, the dependence on Arab oil, the fluctuation of the American dollar (particularly if we traveled), the ostracism by the European community and the confrontation with the Soviets over Afghanistan that earlier led to a boycott of the Olympics. At home, inflation by its very nature signified change. Downtown San Diego underwent a face-lift with the Tijuana Trolley. Disco seemed dead and rock re-emerged.

At school, a new wing was built which reminded us physically that our environment was changing. Over the summer, two teachers changed their names. Many new students and eight new teachers played their part in this drama of change. Most memorably, the dominion of change that has had the greatest effect is the dominion of our own world. We have grown up during our time at Parker and have changed many times to become what we now are.

The seniors leave a world that they will no longer see as participants. What was once daily life is now memory. The 1981 CAVALCADE recognizes that to every senior that seen world is lost forever. Thus, we attempt to recreate the sights of 1980-1981. At the same time, we confess that only a small fraction of the school year could ever be captured in a book; pictures and print are nothing but the tiniest portion of that whole we experienced. What we offer is not the scope of all but the focus on part. This is an annual, shy in its incompleteness but proud in its attempt to articulate the past year.

Even the CAVALCADE has not been immune to change. We have added sixteen more pages to cover the expanding world of Parker. Thus, what we present to you is our school in 1980 and 1981, your record to replay "the abstracts and brief chronicles of the time."

The adjustment from high school to college is difficult if one attempts to carry the burden alone. The person whom the seniors will remember most fondly for helping them with this transition is the recipient of this year's dedication. Always willing to lend an ear, she is not only a counselor, but also a friend. Dependable and trustworthy, she is someone to count on for guidance as well as favors.

Serving Parker for 6 years, she is responsible for helping seniors with their transcripts and applications. She is also one of the behind-the-scenes people involved with the development and future of the school.

She is notable for a pleasant disposition, a cheerful outlook, a friendly smile. To Dr. Crone and Mrs. Smith, she is indispensable. To Francis W. Parker, she is vital. To us, she will be memorable.

It is with great pleasure that we dedicate the 1981 CAVALCADE to Mrs. Jan Rogers, our secretary, mentor and friend.

SENIORS

SENIORS: A Majority of One

Even with their diverse characteristics, the Class of '81 remained a unified whole. The seniors were not only scholars (excelling in SAT scores), but they were also athletes (active in many school sports). Though these well-rounded and good humored individuals were rather mischievous at times, playing pranks on the teachers as well as on each other, they nonetheless always had great ambitions. Parker was proud to note much senior interest in the fields of medicine, psychology, law, business, and drama as future career choices.

Favorite hangouts were Mariner's Point and the beach, while pastimes included photography, art, working on their cars, and roughing it as cowboys. Surfing, skiing, tennis and football were the popular sports. Moreover, the senior class had some accomplished musicians, among them pianists, drummers, guitarists, and violinists. The artistic impulse also found expression in some very fine class actors, actresses, singers and dancers.

Some individuals of the class of '81 had an early start on working. Seniors were seen working at Sea World, doctors' offices, churches, hospitals, and even in mine sites of the Sierras.

The camaraderie of the Class of '81 was memorable. Lunches, social get-togethers, after school parties, car washes, rummage sales, conversations in the parking lot, attending and participating in school sports—all presented the class opportunities to share the feeling appropriate to this final year of high school. They were all individuals who found time for a group, all tangents to a circle and ironically, the circle itself.

Juniors: Antics and Academics

Adjusting to academic life was a big part of the junior year. The class of '82 survived many classes by hiding in book closets, disguising themselves, and rearranging furniture. Even though the students were under a lot of pressure to keep up the GPA's, they didn't forget to make time for fun.

Comprised of many types of people (comics, band members, male and female, athletes, cheerleaders, actors and actresses) the junior class was an enthusiastic, rowdy group that represented a good mixture of ideals and opinions seen on the Parker campus. Next in line to the leadership reins of the school, the juniors are now prepared in many ways to assume their roles as the new seniors!

Sophomores . . . The Middle Of The Road.

Having completed their freshman year of high school and on the verge of being upperclassmen, the sophomores initially had the traditional "intermediate" status blues. Then, as the year progressed, they gained greater confidence, particularly when attending the presentations by college representatives. The "in-between" feelings began to subside and the sophomores contributed their enthusiasm and spirit to Francis Parker.

New challenges, such as PSAT's and a more demanding academic curriculum, had to be met. Still, they could enjoy participating in sports, earning "lucky bucks", getting driver's licenses and going out on weekends. Though they were a small class, they compensated by leaving their big mark on the school.

The freshman class felt that they experienced a "type of seniority" similar to that of the seniors. They sensed a pride as they carried more responsibilities as an "official" high school student.

Among the many in-school activities they enjoyed were football, cheerleading, dances, and drama (in which they had their own class). Skiing, surfing, "partying", and "giving their all" at Charger football games were some of the more popular out-of-school activities.

Although the freshman class noticed an increase in homework, they still felt just being a part of the senior high school was definitely worth it!

The eighth graders provided leadership and enthusiasm for the junior high as well as the entire upper school. A wild and crazy group, their interests ranged from horses to surfing, war games to stamp collecting, and Frankenstein to Devo. They were seen participating in school sports, dancing to the Games Night beat, and wearing their cowboy duds during Spirit week.

The Class of '85 also had a serious side which was evident in class, at the Science Fair, and during lunchtime discussions of the hostage crisis and the new President, Ronald Reagan. Though the members of the class of '85 were not bionic, they were able to live through finals, support school activities, and have an outstanding year.

This year's seventh grade class was the largest ever in the history of Francis Parker. They were divided into four sections of "peagreeners" or "munchkins" as Mr. Bennett affectionately called them.

Academically, many new challenges presented themselves; more homework, more preparation, final examinations and harder courses. Socially, games nights were the highlights of the year. Usually held once a month, they begin with an activity (such as bowling or miniature golf) continue with dinner and conclude with a dance. The year's first games night proved to be unique because it included a light show at the lower school. Athletically, a large group of seventh graders participated in the junior high sports program and helped to make Parker quite competitive with other schools.

The seventh grade surely made its mark in spirit, academics and character.

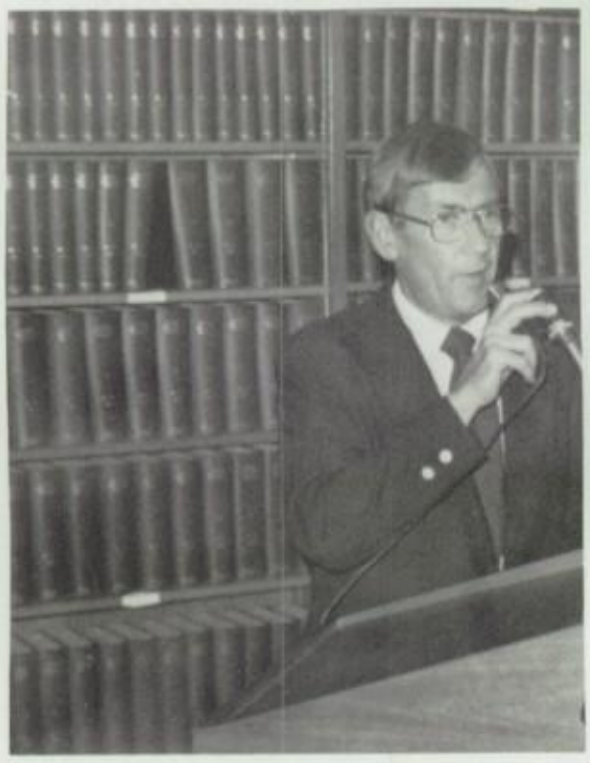
FACULTY/ADMINISTRATION

From The Top



My greatest joy in working with seniors every year is getting to know each one of them from a more personal standpoint. Quite often as the school year ends, I have discovered some pertinent facts or idiosyncrasies about each senior that comes as a surprise to them that I was paying that much attention.

These "bits and pieces" accumulated on The Class of 1981 are thus shared this year with the yearbook staff in my annual message. The reflections are symptomatic of a school year at Parker that was positive in tone, productive in results and most of all "lubricated" with humor, especially MY seniors.

Near The Top

Parker's administration is an ensemble of dedicated and conscientious people; each takes a sincere interest in the actions of every individual student. Their deeds often go unnoticed and without thanks, but they continue to remain the real foundation of this school. THE CAVALCADE would like to take this opportunity to thank Dr. Crone, and the rest of the administration: Mrs. Smith, Mr. Volker, Mr. Bennett, Mrs. Helwig, Mrs. Rogers, and the people who developed many of the ideas at Parker, Mr. Westlund and Mrs. Midlam.

Faculty: Wit, Wisdom, and Work

New teachers (combined with the old) added spice to Parker's faculty. The result was a blend of different cultures and teaching experiences, of backgrounds ranging from Romanian to English to Californian. Students learned much merely from listening to the various stories their instructors had to tell (in addition to the textbooks of course!)

Veterans at Parker—some who have been here for 20 years—helped prepare their colleagues for their students. Is this a hard job? For people dedicated to their job—of course not. To disseminate some treasured knowledge to others: what could be so challenging, and yet, at the same time, so exhilarating?

Outside the academic life, the faculty showed their school spirit by supporting the various teams at their events (and even participating in a few games themselves). Evidently, they remember the saying about all work and no play.

THE PARKER FACULTY: definitely a group of people to learn from and with!

Changes in the Staff

Under the new leadership of Rosemary Nugent, the cafeteria staff provided Parker with many delicious and nutritious meals. The ubiquitous changes at Parker were also evident in the cafeteria as Sherman Lewis was the first man to join the kitchen crew.

Dan Zatarain, transportation head, supervised the drivers with the help of his able-bodied assistant (a new position) Debbie Burzynski.

The maintenance crew, led by Richard Holder, kept Parker in order in many ways.

New Directions

Development of school facilities was the main goal of Parker's Board of Directors. The committee of dedicated parents, alumni, and faculty, led by President John Seiber, concerned themselves mainly with plans for a student center and outdoor athletic facilities. They also worked on the increase of annual donations.

Their first phase for Parker's exppansion was finished in January with an additional wing to the office building. Dr. Crone was no longer forced to share his office with the senior class. The development office was moved from dorm one and a conference room was built to accomodate meetings by various school groups.

Homecoming this year was notable for spirit, fun and creativity. Spirit week began on Monday, October 27 with Western Day and continued with Future Day, 50's Day, Secret Ambition Day and the traditional Brown and Gold Day on Friday. On Saturday, the football team valiantly played Pasadena PolyTech, coming up short 35-19. Despite the loss, the atmosphere was exciting.

The highlight of Homecoming day was the crowning of the Queen and her court and the announcement of the King. Katie Seiber was named Queen; her court included Anne Pavel, Elizabeth Reid, Kathy Blue, Jennifer Ray and Lauren Young. Escorting the girls were Ted Davis, Bert Wahlen, Ben Stephens, Stewart Bieler and Eric Subin. George Smith seemed quite surprised when he was awarded the crown of Homecoming King, but all present knew it was well deserved.

In the evening, a dance was held at the lower school featuring the band Ex-calibur, concluding a week of enjoyable activities!

Parker Counsels Well

The Senior High Student Council, under the capable hands of President John Otterson, generated interest and enthusiasm in the student body. Highlights of the year were the Homecoming festivities, the Yard-athon, the Winter Dance at the Town and Country Hotel, the "Pippin" assembly and the Year-end dance. All of the officers worked hard to make Parker activities livelier and more frequent. Newly appointed advisor, David Johnson, also contributed much time and effort to assisting this strong, representative student government.

At press time, elections were being held for positions during the 1981-1982 school years. New officers are John Halac, president; Shelley Warren, vice-president; Robyn Bitner, secretary; Victor Pesqueira, treasurer; and Anna Stump, commissioner of publicity.

Secretary Lee Rhein makes a point as representative Renate Adloff concurs.

Mr. Johnson elaborates on an issue as John Otterson intently listens.

ASSEMBLY: The School of the Desert presents "Pippin" on Friday, February 6, 1981, sponsored by the Senior High Student Council.

Jr. High Council: Work Days and Games Nights

The primary concern of the Jr. High Student Council is to run and manage the magazine sale and to raise enough money to finance activities for the following year. Though it is not a highly structured or politically oriented group, it nonetheless does offer valuable input to Mr. Ron Bennett, director of the Junior High. This year's council, led by President Hilary Caplan, has been particularly successful—no doubt in part because of her efforts! Mr. Bennett called Hilary "one of the most organized presidents we've had in many a year!" Sponsoring Games Nights, contributing money to dances and to the year-end trip to Disneyland, the council has unselfishly worked hard to make Parker's Junior High the "experience" that it is!

ASSEMBLY: Mr. Devine and the karate class demonstrate techniques for the 7th and 8th grade, sponsored by the Jr. High Student Council on February 6, 1981.

Sr. High Girls' League: The Message Proved Successful

The 1980-1981 Senior High Girl's League started anew with a larger committee and new advisor, Mrs. Betty Dessants. Leading the girls were President, Sherri McKinnon, Vice-President, Kathy Blue and Secretary-Treasurer, Mary Jane Buck.

There were three girls rather than one for each grade to better represent their classes in ideas and participation. Representing the 9th grade were Elizabeth Campbell, Kendall McIntyre and Monique Soares; 10th: Ellen Miller, Marites Quini, and Janet Hughes; 11th: Lisa Hayworth, Marla Winitz and Leslie Rowen; 12th: Roxanne Hon, Karen Kingery and Betsy Press.

Throughout the year, the girls participated in several fund raisers. At Thanksgiving, turkeys in baskets and many cans of food (from the drive) were donated to needy families in the area. They started a new tradition this year by selling mistletoe and decorating the cafeteria at Christmas. Another innovation was the different colored carnations sold for Valentine's Day. Each color conveyed a message from the sender. Surely, the message from this year's Girls League was clear!

Jr. High Girl's Contribute to the Cause!

Led by president Cindy Driscoll and vice president Wendy Driscoll, the Jr. High Girl's League set high goals. Helping the cause were secretary Sharon Lintz and treasurer Ceri Slacum, eighth grade reps Allison Pay and Kim Henderson, seventh graders Jennifer Schultz and Shelly Clark. The girls showed much service and participated in various activities and fund raisers (candy and carnation sales, contributing money to games night for music and to needy families in the area for food and clothing).

An Amazing View

The most outstanding aspect of the school's newspaper, THE VIEW, was the amazingly large amount of news and feature material (eight to ten pages) that was written every month for such a small school. This was due to a small but diligent staff, some of whom worked jointly with the yearbook staff.

More students were inducted into Quill and Scroll, a journalistic organization at the January parties, the second in June, which served as incentive and reward at the end of each semester.

Although more pictures were used in the paper this year, the real innovation was the monthly photo contest. (the baby photo contest attracted the most interest). More polls and contests were published. An additional section that focused on the seventh and eighth grade students was the Jr. Hi-lites. Also, more sports Updates were published (six issues as compared to three last year).

A Moving Cavalcade

The 1980-1981 Cavalcade staff seemed to be the journalistic definition of perpetual motion. The first move was to Dormitory One, the new headquarters for the yearbook. Thereafter, nothing seemed stationary or static. Floods of photographs came in, layouts multiplied, stacks of copy were revised and edited; even the size of the staff increased as the months progressed. Faculty advisor Mr. Stephen Dessants called our group "the most fun loving and at the same time the most interesting" that he has ever supervised! For this year's staff, deadlines were met with a lot of enthusiasm and with only a little apprehension. After all, assembling a staff and putting together a yearbook is a Cavalcade in itself!

"Encore" Drama Hears from the Audience!

The first semester in Drama was highlighted by a great performance called "Encore" a mosaic of music through the decades. Various skits like "Bonnie and Clyde," "Who's on First" and "Little Rascals" with comedy from Katie Seiber and George Smith and individual solos from Barney Firks, Steve Fisher, Renate Adloff, Stefan Medin, Kim Jenkins, Tina Oggel, Jackie Gardiner and Mary Jane Buck received rousing audience response! Stewart Bieler played the announcer, the link between skits. Drama classes proved to be enjoyable for upper schoolers and a production of "Annie Get Your Gun" is scheduled for the spring.

The Winter Dance was held at the Town and Country Convention Center in the Padre and Sierra Room on Saturday, January 24, 1981. Sponsored by the student council, this "Winter Wonderland" (the theme of the dance) featured the rock band Vengeance. Chaperones for the evening were the Geroes, Mr. Pooch, Mrs. Moorehead and Mr. D. Johnson. It was truly a memorable evening for the many students who attended one of the major activities of the first semester!

Jenn,
have a radical summer with Chris F. and don't get to wasted! English has been boring but you help make it fun! Devine is a Jerk we all know it so don't let the teachers get you down because we've got the summer off yea!

Games Nights Centers on Fun!

Games Nights were certainly the social highlights of the year for Jr. High students. Alternately sponsored by both student council and girls' league, these varied activities were well supported by the students. The Games Night format included departure by bus from school at 2:30 to attend the activity from 3:00 to 5:30, and then having dinner before a dance that lasts from 6:00 to 8:00 with music provided by Mr. John Fox. This year, students went to La Mesa Fun Center, Palisades Gardens (roller skating), Clairemont Mesa Bowl and La Mesa House of Ice. After the first games night, there was a Disco Dance at the Lower School using equipment donated by a Parker parent. From ice skating to "waterbugging" these were nights to remember.

Electives Show Variety, of course!

Beginning photography students learned how to use lighting, develop film and print their own pictures. The advances members worked on photo essays, posters and color printing. Mr. Ray Terrill, teacher of the class, purchased a camera and a new filter system for classroom use. The students took field trips to a processing plant, the zoo and the wild animal park.

Under the guidance of Mr. Alan Johnson, the art class finished various projects such as mosaic art work, pencil drawings and wood carvings. Many of the projects were displayed in the office showcase and were given much praise by passers-by.

Skirts, tops, dresses and jumpers were the productive results of the sewing class. The girls could make pillows, ornaments and blankets at home on their own time but clothing construction was the major emphasis in class. Some students, such as Betsy Press, have taken sewing year after year. It must be that Mrs. Ghironi has kept the class in stitches!

The creative writing class, a new course offered by Mrs. Patti Crone, worked towards the publication of a liberal arts magazine at the end of the year. Though the three members wanted more students to participate in the course, they still felt it was a worthwhile experience to select a topic and edit one's own material.

The woodshop students accomplished quite a bit this year making checker or chessboards, jewelry boxes, small furniture and miscellaneous items. In short, they didn't go against the grain. Last year Andrew Krause was the first Parker student in forty years to win the Regatta in his division. Mr. Cheskaty hopes his students will achieve similar results this year. The three events the students participate in are the art show, the sailboat Regatta (7th through 9th grades), and the Southern California Exposition (advanced woodworkers).

Mr. Pooch's computer class was aided by the addition of an Apple II computer, an exciting innovation in the course mechanics. It can talk, play music and print color graphics. The students program basic information into the mechanical mind and then the "little Apple" goes to work, making the once miraculous commonplace today.

Washington, D.C. January 16-20, 1981

Thirty-three students and four teachers braved the cold and the crowds of Washington, D.C. to participate in the Inaugural festivities from January 16 to January 20. On the first day of the tour, the group visited the National Archives to see the original Declaration of Independence and Constitution and walked down Pennsylvania Avenue to the FBI, where they saw past famous cases on display (Dillinger, Bonnie and Clyde, Al Capone!) and an arms demonstration by an agent with a tommy gun. Thereafter, they ventured to Arlington National Cemetery, the Smithsonian Institute, the Capitol Building, the U.S. Bureau of Printing and Engraving, Mt. Vernon, the Lincoln and Jefferson Memorials, the Washington Monument, Ford's Theatre (where Lincoln was assassinated) and the Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts. Nighttime activities included a dinner theatre, a "Broadway Musical", a "party" at the hotel and a dramatic presentation at the Eisenhower Theatre. The final day was spent on Pennsylvania Avenue fighting the crowds to get a good view of the Inaugural parade and Reagan's motorcade. Most importantly, the news of the release of the hostages in Iran generated excitement and unforgettable memories. An exhaused but pleased group alighted at Parker at midnight of the 20th!

Cum Laude's Laudable

The Cum Laude Society still carries on its tradition of justice, honor, and excellence. David McLean and Marilou Quini were installed at the beginning of the school year. Three students were initiated later in the year, Geoffrey Berg, Roxanne Hon and Ted Tchang.

The Annual Christmas party was held at the home of Marilou and many members from previous years were in attendance.

At press time, several fund raisers were being planned, including a book sale. Other activities included a showing of a foreign film, an assembly and an invitation dinner.

SPORTS

THE SPIRIT WAS THERE!

Although the 1980-1981 Varsity cheer squad was formed by mostly inexperienced spirit leaders, the girls pulled off an incredible year.

Cheer camp at Stanford brought the squad together and taught them what was to be expected of them in the upcoming year. Fond memories of sleeping in the San Francisco airport, mattress races in the halls, and the proud moment of winning for the third year in a row the "Spencer Spirit Stick", will last!

During the year the girls provided extra spirit boosters for their teams; pillow cases and goodie bags along with a surprise breakfast for the football players, and a dinner for the basketball team while anxiously awaiting the CIF game. Posters and oranges were always there to bring up team spirit.

The Varsity squad, Nanci Burg, Lee Rhein, Anne Pavel, Sabra Lewis, Lisa Hayworth, Renate Adloff, Shelley Warren, Lisa Arneson and Kris Vansant, although sometimes short of precision, knew THE SPIRIT WAS THERE!

V-Ball: Consistency is the Setter

The girls' varsity team, led by new coach Tina Keehl, had a terrific season this year. They boasted a 10-2 league record, losing only to LJCD and Julian.

The varsity squad consisted of returning vets Kate Seiber, Anne Pavel, Elizabeth Reid, and Dena Murray. Moving up from J.V. were Sue Rutherford, Laura Russell, Marites Quini, and Janet Hughes. Two new members completed the team: Kathy Blue and Amy Smith.

The team was led by the excellent hitting ability of Kate Seiber, Elizabeth Reid, and Kathy Blue, as well as the consistent passing of Amy Smith and Sue Rutherford. The setters, deserving much of the credit were Anne Pavel and Dena Murray. Janet Hughes, Marites Quini, and Laura Russell provided a strong bench and a lot of enthusiasm.

Parker made a clean sweep at C.I.F. candidates this year. Elizabeth Reid and Kate Seiber made first team-all conference, and Anne Pavel made second team. Amy Smith and Sue Rutherford received honorable mention awards.

At the Sports Banquet the "Most Improved" award went to Sue Rutherford. Amy Smith received a well earned "Most Dedicated" award. Most "Team Spirit" went to Janet Hughes, and Katie Seiber was awarded "Most Valuable Player."

The team will always remember their "office talks", goofing around in practice, bus rides, and EATING doughnuts and ice cream. They thank Coach Keehl for a terrific season!

Parker Football Tackles Tough Schedule

This year's Varsity football team's 2-5 record is not an accurate indicator of their ability. The competitive squad tackled a tough schedule, including such teams as Maranatha, Flintridge, Pasadena Poly, Capistrano Valley Christian and Masada. The seniors dominated starting line-up including many veterans.

The offensive backfield included; Sean Rogan, halfback, Steve Harris, fullback and Bert Wahlen, quarterback. Pat Styles also shared time in the quarterback position. The all-senior offensive line boasted Gabe Zatarain, left end, Chris Zucconi, left guard, Geoff Berg, center, John Otterson, right guard, and Ted Davis, right end. Sean Rogan, the team's leading rusher, was selected as the Best Offensive Player.

The Parker defense utilized a three man front, primarily. Anchoring the line was noseman Chris Zucconi. The ends were Gabe Zatarain and Stewart Bieler. The linebacking corp included Geoff Berg and Kent Jones. Safety Ted Davis, was flanked by cornermen Marc Wolfsheimer and Keith Sampson. The leading tackler, Ted Davis, was awarded Best Defensive and Most Valuable Player. The Most Improved Award went to Stuart Bieler. Overall, the hard work, dedication and spirit was worthwhile and enjoyable.

"VICTORY AT LAST"

It seems to be a new era for another Parker sport. The Varsity soccer team had its first win since its start over two years ago by no less than a 10-1 score over Victory Christian! There was no stopping them after that! The soccer team disposed of its arch rival, La Jolla Country Day, 1-0 on a penalty kick and then went to play well against the then #8 rank team in the county, Bishops. Coach Hatori felt that despite the loss to Bishops, Parker's team performance was becoming more commensurate with its potential.

Soccer is very much a team sport; it takes a unified, disciplined group effort to achieve success. The tremendous contributions of all the team members should be recognized!

Cross Country . . .

Rebuilding Blocks

Parker's second year of cross-country was labelled as a "character builder" as it was a very tough season. The team competed against more experienced runners, suffering many defeats and achieving no victories.

The team consisted of six members; Steve Abbott, Andy Eros, Frank Tobin, Thor Brickman, Victor Pesqueira and Joel Smith. Victor Pesqueira was the number-one runner, consistently scoring in the top five runners in each race and running under six-minute miles in the League finals. Steve Abbott received Most Improved Runner award.

The cross country team began building its team as a core for next year's group. A few junior high runners even went out to run with the team in order to offer Parker's team some future options.

Senior Standouts

Lancer basketball seems headed for a highly successful year. At press time they are the owners of a 14-2 overall record and an unblemished 11-0 league mark. Their accomplishments include the championships of the Parker Invitational and Ojai Valley tournaments.

The veteran squad is led offensively by Ted Davis and George Smith who average close to 20 points per game. This, coupled with Gabe Zatarain's consistent rebounding, Matt Herrill's defensive expertise and Kent Jones' playmaking skills has produced a Lancer team which averages 70 points a game while yielding only 40. Valuable contributors are also Victor Pesqueira, Sean and James Rogan, Steve Harris and Bert Wahlen.

The final goal of this year's team and its coaching staff, headed by Dave Glassey, is to regain the CIF Class 1A championship (to be held at the Sports Arena in late February). This goal is definitely in their reach and hopefully will provide a triumphant climax to an exciting season.

WE'RE NUMBER 1!

STOP PRESS.

Parker's varsity basketball team culminated a fantastic 20-2 season by winning the CIF 1A Championship, 73-57 over Calipatria at the San Diego Sports Arena on March 3, 1981. The convincing triumph meant a lot to our team and school, particularly considering the abominable coverage given by the local media. We proved to all that we could win at the Championship level and that we have a talented, well-coached group of players.

Parker was obviously physically and mentally prepared for the game, given a rousing "send-off" from school with a pep rally conducted by the cheerleaders. On the court they played with confidence, skill and composure. Most valuable player of the game, Ted Davis, led the team with 28 points, chipping in clutch baskets and free throws and controlling the tempo of the game. Forward George Smith buried any Calipatria hopes for comeback with key rebounds and superb outlet passes on the fast break. Center Matt Herrill was outstanding on both ends of the court contributing, like George, 10 rebounds and 16 points. Typically, the fine efforts of the team leaders inspired great play by seniors Gabe Zatarain and Sean Rogan, junior Kent Jones and sophomore Steve Harris.

We wish to acknowledge our team's championship season with this tribute in print and pictures. It was, without a doubt, a very good year!

Coaches Glassey, Keehl, and Helscher intensely involved.

The Scoreboard tells it all.

The girls' softball team ended their season with a fourth place finish in the CIF 1A play-offs. Facing stiff competition, the girls played remarkably well in some very close contests.

Though the overall season record of 16 wins and 5 losses was particularly good, the spirit of the team was fantastic! Led by seniors Katie Seiber, Sandy Iverson, Sherri McKinnon and Suzanne Davies, hustle and team play were stressed. The team had a good core of underclassmen and the future is bright for Lancer softball.

Led by returning lettermen Ted Davis, Gabe Zatarain, George Smith, Geoff Berg, Bert Wahlen, Sean Rogan, James Rogan, Pat Styles, Chris Brickman and Mike Seiber, the Varsity baseball team seems to have a good chance for a successful season.

Newcomers to the squad, Paul Frye, Jeff Heikkila and Derek Krider, hope to help out the team. At press time, hitting seemed to be the strong point of the team, while fielding was the team's major concern. Hopefully with a little bit of work, the Lancers can reverse last season's losing trend and play winning baseball.

Clockwise from upper left: Pat scores on James' triple. Ted clouts one. George steals third easily. Geoff legs one out. Chris ready to fire another strike. Gabe shows good form on a hit. Center: Pitcher Chris and Catcher Ted discuss strategy.

Starting the season with reliable veterans and new members, Coach Ed Helscher foresaw a great deal of potential for a strong team. With that in mind, he hoped to win the League Championship and then the CIF Championship.

Kate Seiber reigned as high scorer with Janet Hughes and Elizabeth Reid quick on rebounds and defense. Excellent shooting by Sherri McKinnon, Sandy Iverson and Amy Smith contributed to high scores. Outstanding performances were made by Kim Jenkins, Marites Quini, Dena Murray and Kathy Blue. A fourth-place finish in the Parker Tournament did not dim the girls hopes for a winning season.

Tennis Serves Parker Well

A fresh transfusion of new blood promised to give the 1981 tennis team added strength. Although it was too early to predict, the team was expected to perform well in league competition under the efficient coaching of Mark Giraud.

At this time, the top seeds in singles were Andy Augustine, Suzanne Davies, Rob Palmer, Marc Wolfsheimer, and Dan Augustine. Sidelined with illness was Anne Pavel.

In doubles, Matt Herrill and Joel Smith appeared on the scene, complementing the veteran team of Keith Sampson and Ted Tchang.

To maintain competition within the team, Coach Giraud set up a challenge system so that players could advance on the team ladder.

The 1981 track and field season saw the return of many of Parker's former thinclads, along with several new ones. Lancer relay teams looked especially powerful as opponents were often dismayed to look at the rapid heels of Adam Grant, David McLean, John Romero and Eric Subin.

Victor Pesqueira's 4.10 mile topped the league with Eric Rindal looking equally promising. David McLean's powerful discus hurling put him in the league's top three competitors. Laura Russell's quick sprints and high hurdles earned her a league medal. Adam Grant and Thor Brickman appeared as field competitors in the sprints.

Parker's stamina and competitive spirit placed it in the best league standing the school has ever seen . . . quite a tribute to a successful season!

J.V. Football is Running Well

This was a season of experimentation and tremendous effort by the J.V. football team. They ended the season with a two and three record, very good considering that six of the eight starters were ninth graders. Despite their tough schedule this year, the Lancers managed to beat Newport Christian 16-8 and Pasadena Poly in Parker's Homecoming game, 40-19. During the season, Parker was defeated by Chula Vista Christian twice and Flintridge once.

When the J.V.s won, everyone's stats were usually boosted, though the stat book was almost always dominated by two people, Harry Boffman and John Romero. These two running backs scored almost all of the Lancers' touchdowns, (Harry had 4 and John tallied 6) and also played very well on defense. The key to many games was usually found in the offensive and defensive lines led by Mike Castagnola, Randy Blue and Peter Collins.

Even though it doesn't show on their record, the J.V. football team had an impressive year. They have the potential for a first place team; all they need is another year or two of experience.

The 1980-1981 JV Cheerleaders gave their all for the sports of Parker this year. This outgoing and spirited group came often for 7:30 A.M. practices and seemed to grow together as a unit as the year progressed. Eight cheerleaders showed the enthusiasm of eighty, while learning along with the squads they supported what it meant to work as a team. The girls had a terrific time cheerleading and the crowd had a great time cheer receiving.

JV V-Ball: Undefeated

The JV volleyball team had a great year, going undefeated and winning the Southern League Championship. MVP Melinda Hulme led the team with fine overall play while Most Dedicated Danielle Kaplan and Most Improved Christine Gleason added punch to the offense and defense. Kendall McIntyre, Patty Drane and Lynn Fowler rounded out the starting team contributing much effort to the cause. The play of the JV squad this year, inspiring and fiery, gave Parker a lot to cheer about for the future as well.

JV Field Gold in Southern League

Standing: Ed Helscher, Daniel Rowen, Bo Woods, Stewart Bieler, Steve Abbott, Eric Rindal, Bear Evons. Kneeling: William Kelley, Mike Davies, Jeff Heikkila, John Romero, Derek Krider, Philip Adler.

Due to great coaching and a lot of hard work, the J.V. basketball team had a very successful season (10-6 overall, 6-3 in the league), finishing in a tie for first place in the Southern League. The team, made up of eleven freshmen and four sophomores, produced great varsity prospects and a solid returning J.V. squad.

Overcoming early-season inexperience and with the addition of transfer Mike Seiber and former varsity player James Rogan, the team developed an explosive offense and tenacious defense. Eric Rindal, Bo Woods, John Romero, Stewart Bieler and Derek Krider were superb at both ends of the court. Defense and hustle were characteristics of the bench as Coach Helscher showed his confidence in them throughout this successful season. The J.V. ended this year with four straight convincing victories, no doubt a sign of good things to come for Parker basketball!

JV Girls B-Ball "Defense"

The JV Girls' Basketball team were a dedicated, hardworking group who combined fun with dedication. Coach Dave Cook was optimistic about the upcoming year saying "We're going to be the best defensive team in the league." Undoubtedly, defense was the key to the team in the early going as the coach hoped to work on the offensive facets as the year went on. Stressing overall commitment by the girls, Mr. Cook said, "I think it's going to take a total team effort for us to be successful this year."

JV Baseball "Hustle"

The JV Boys' Baseball team was involved in a rebuilding year. Still, they had enough talent to win their first game convincingly over Santa Fe Christian. Top hitters Derek Krider and Barney Firks inspired the team effort while Shawn Reed, Bo Woods and Paul Frye added support in the pitching department. Coach Kerry Keehl said about his team: "If we keep the players motivated and working hard, we will have a good team. We will have to rely on hustle and running to win ball games this year." The spirited JV, motivated by high hopes, will surely work hard to achieve their goals.

Jennifer,
well we're almost out of here. I'm glad I got to know you, you're a really good friend. wasn't art
the greatest. we really got a lot done.
Have a really hot summer. Take care
Love Ben

Jennifer,
I know we haven't been the BEST of friends but we do have a lot of funny things to remember.
Like pigging out in Jonathan's car, pigging out again at Kris' party! "YUM" (about the bread!)
Otlwell, have a terrific summer and I'll see you next year!
Luv
Janet

Jen, Glad I got to meet you this year. Chris is a pretty lucky guy. I'll miss those Park City parties over the summer. Hope you have a great summer,
so. Well
you
Next year.
love Kaplan

Jenni)
Chem. was kind of radical. How was the dance. The pre-party was really fun.
(Xmas trees) ha! Have fun this summer & see you and I hope to see
maybe in Park City).
Later. love
Mike

Jennifer,
I had thought you were leaving but guess it's good to stay.
If you got into senior assembly, will all have to sit together and music.
listen to the back
Have a good time this summer taking care of your little brother.
love, mary.

Jennifer -
This year was fun, too bad we weren't better friends, remember in 8th grade when we ALWAYS had Doritos Attacks?! Those were the days when I didn't care if I was fat or not! But anyways, lets play tennis this summer.

Marites

Jennifer,
Yeah, another year has past and it really wasn't that bad. I hope you've enjoying your 2nd at Suessens as much as I am. Have to see you this summer!
luv Vanessa :)

Jennifer,
You're really terrific girl and I'm really glad that I got to know you this year. Too bad you didn't get to know Ronald and don't get too radical over the summer.
Love Lisa

Jennifer,
I really enjoyed meeting you this year. You are one of the prettiest girls I know. Too bad things didn't work for you and Steve Penner, I maybe have seen you more. But then again, I don't think he's right for you. I had a really good time at your party - meeting Ms. Mershon was so weird! Say hello to her for me. Have a super summer.
love, anna

Dear Jennifer,

I just dont know were to begin. This year was completly crappy suntill I met you. You are so good looking and you care. I think that is the most important thing in a relationship. Even though there are some loose ends to tie up, you and I make a good ~~couple~~ could. You always saying, however, that I'm so much more different. That's not even close to true. We think the same way and we feel for others in the same way. I've told you many times before, but when I say it this time keep it in your mind. I've never had a steady girlfriend and this whole concept is completely new to me. But not matter how bad I am at it, I'm still trying my best to give you all of my love. I don't want you to feel that you not doing something because your doing everything right and as far as I'm concerned you don't have to do anything, but don't stop loving me. I thought the year end dance was the best dance I ever went to. On my ship a man in your stockings. Wearing underwear and only one thing in our way. I love you even if it doesn't show and I always will. Lately I'm one but you matters to me. Please excuse my handwriting it isn't the best in the world but it does the trick. Another thing, Please don't stop loving me. That is exactly what I don't need right now from you (No/Ans). I'm sure the only thing we lack in our lives is what we couldn't do before. I'm sure if you let me make love to you you'll know what I'm trying to say. Don't ever let any one read this!!! Because if someone does I'll be forever embarrassed. I guess this is it so I'll close with I love you and always. Chris P.S. You are so cute.

Jennifer,
You're a great person and a great friend! I know things didn't seem to work out for us, but maybe someday (hopefully) we can give it try. I know that we can always be friends. I hope that we can understand things now. I like you alot, and feel that we have had a lot of great times together. I am looking forward to a lot of tennis this summer. Let's not lose contact.

Love,
Jonathan.

Jennifer -
hard one to tell of a year. I enjoyed having you as a chemistry partner. Your wit and beauty made me almost hope we had another lab to talk. Stay sweet,

Love,
Class of '85

Granola,
It used to be real neat when you were one of the guys. But I still like you. I won't be returning next year so you'll have to do without me. See you in space.

Love,
Matt Silver

Jennifer,
You really are a nice person, you put up with all the stupidity and some times you join in. Even though you make good grades your cool. Do your homework kid lunch it's more interesting that way

Jennifer;
This year we started out not being that good of friends but I feel like we just kept getting better friends as the year went on. One thing that I will never forget was Kim's party - remember pleasantly bluzzed ?! I think that you are a really nice person and I hope that we can get together this summer. I also hope that some good movies come out so that I can finally give you your birthday present, sorry it's taken so long!

Lisa Hill

P.S. please call me!

Jennifer,

You're the first person I've written to! Anyway, I've had a great time with you this year and I'm glad we got to be better friends! We've had fun celebrating the many 16th birthdays which rose up! (Singing telegram!) and I hope we'll stay good friends..!! I hope we can get together over the summer and go to the beach or shopping! Stay as you are because you're one of the nicest people I know! Well, see ya later!

P.S. It's been great in Latin!

Lots of Luv,
Tiner Beaner

Jennifer,
I'm really glad I got to know you this year. We started to become pretty good friends but then we didn't see each other very often.
I really hope we have more classes together next year and really want a great summer!

Jennifer,
I'm really glad to know you this year. I think you're a really nice girl and I hope you get what you want out of life. I'm glad you're coming back next year and I hope I'll get a better summer! Have a

Love,
Molly

Jennifer,
It's been real fun having you in class especially looking at you in Chem. It's also been fun coming to see you and Melinda serving me at Swensen's I'll becoming in a lot during the summer. Any time you need a car to drive just give me a call. Hope to see you over the summer (which I probably will) Have a good year next year and I'll come up and visit you.

Love
Steve Bennion
